A few days ago, the Florida House of Representatives passed a bill, HB 973, to legalize medical marijuana. While it was a long, arduous process, advocates are excited at the bill's passage. The bill passed the Florida Senate and goes to Governor Rick Scott for approval. The Governor could either sign or veto the bill. If he does veto the bill, there is still a chance that the bill could make its way through the Legislature. However, that's far less likely now that the Governor has moved to amend the bill. HB 973, The Compassionate Medical Cannabis Act, is more than just a marijuana bill. It gives patients the right to use CBD, which is the non-psychoactive compound found in cannabis. CBD oils are now being used as a treatment for a wide variety of conditions, including epilepsy, severe nausea, chronic pain, PTSD, and anorexia. There is also the potential for CBD to reduce the opioid use and side effects that come from opioid treatments. During the hearings, I attended, a number of doctors testified to the therapeutic potential of CBD. Dr. James Russo, a psychiatrist, told the committee that he had seen a lot of success with treating children with “autism-like symptoms” with CBD. Dr. Russo
