with enticing a minor into sexual activity, child abuse by use of computer, and possession of material harmful to a minor, according to the court documents.

Investigators said the boy, 11, told them that he would go to Arreola's store to use the computers to look at pornography and that the business owner would "turn his office into a room with a bed" for them. Another boy, 10, also said that Arreola would "take him into the office and get him to masturbate in front of him." Arreola was in custody on $150,000 bail. Watch the video below from WOAI,

Systematic screening and cloning of phosphoproteins from human cardiac sarcomeres by in-gel digestion and mass spectrometry. The molecular machinery by which sarcomeres regulate contraction and cardiac pump function is not fully understood and, consequently, it is difficult to target these processes therapeutically. Phosphorylation of sarcomeric proteins may play a role in this regulation and has been explored in some detail using Western blots with synthetic peptides that correspond to known sequences of phosphorylated proteins. We therefore undertook to use proteomic approaches to gain a more complete picture of phosphoproteins involved in cardiac function. Cardiac myofibrils were isolated from human left ventricle using a modified method of cleavage and shearing, and subjected to an isolation procedure which retains intact sarcomere integrity. Phosphoproteins were purified from these myofibrillar preparations by an immunoaffinity step and then were subsequently subjected to sequencing by microcapillary liquid chromatography-electrospray ionization-tandem mass spectrometry (microLC-ESI-MS-MS). Data were obtained from three technical replicates of each of three separate purifications and these data were searched against the Swiss-Prot database. More than 100 unique phosphoproteins were identified, with 54 successfully identified by fragmentation spectra. Phosphorylation sites were detected in 39 of these proteins, and where possible, phosphorylated residues were localized to cysteine residues by comparing the precursor and fragment ion series of the phosphopeptides. A phosphoprotein-specific enzymatic hydrolysis of the biological samples by protein phosphatase 2A indicated that 17 were actually regulated by phosphorylation. Four of these were cardiac troponin I (TnI), myosin regulatory light chain, and multiple titin isoforms.

Phosphorylation of titin or myosin regulatory light chain could indicate a role for this type of regulation in cardiac pump function.

Identification of many phosphoproteins with unique sites should facilitate direct targeting Detection of high-risk subtypes of human papilloma virus (HPV), particularly those involved in the pathogenesis of cervical cancer, is the major goal of HPV diagnosis. The present paper describes time-resolved fluoroimmunoassay (TRFIA) as
