Roblox is an online game platform and game creation system developed by Roblox Corporation that allows users to program games and play games created by other users. Created by David Baszucki and Erik Cassel in 2004 and released in 2006, the platform hosts user-created games of multiple genres coded in the programming language Lua. For most of Roblox's history, it was relatively small, both as a platform and a company. Roblox began to grow rapidly in the second half of the 2010s, and this growth has been accelerated by the COVID-19 pandemic. Roblox is free to play, with in-game purchases available through a virtual currency called Robux. As of August 2020, Roblox had over 164 million monthly active users, including more than half of all American children under 16. Although Roblox has received generally positive reviews from critics, it has faced criticism for its moderation, microtransactions, and exploitative practices directed toward children. The web application already have a filter that should be reused in a servlet filter. The problem is that the filter is deployed in the context of the web application, so if a request is received by the filter it won't be able to access the context of the web application. Is there any way to use the filter defined in the web application in a servlet filter that is deployed in a different context? A: Ideally, for me, the following environment: A single JBoss server with several different 'virtual' sub-jboss servers Multiple Tomcat servers (including a virtual Tomcat server) And the following infrastructure (I'm basing this on the following presentation:) If the filter is defined in a Java class called SomeFilter, to deploy the filter to the same sub-jboss server (in which the web application is deployed), it must be deployed as following: In the JBoss server: /sub-jboss-server/WEB-INF/jboss-web.xml 804945ef61
